¶ THE INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF ETHICS, in its own distinct field, is the foremost quarterly of its kind now published. It deals, from the many points of view of its world-wide contributors, with the fundamental principles and concepts of ethics and with the various phases of individual conduct and social morality on their practical side. Its pages have always been non-sectarian and non-partisan, and writers of all shades of thought and belief have been equally welcome as contributors of articles and book reviews. Each issue appeals to those who are interested in the pressing moral and social problems of the time, and who desire to keep abreast of the most recent and advanced ethical thought concerning them as expressed by the ablest thinkers along these lines.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

¶ The annual subscription, payable in advance, is $2.50. Single numbers, 65 cents postpaid. The four yearly issues are dated October, January, April, and July. New volumes begin with the October issue, but subscriptions can commence with any back number desired. Make remittances payable to the order of THE INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF ETHICS.

COMMUNICATIONS

¶ Editorial correspondence and manuscripts should be sent to Professor Frank Thilly, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. Books for review which are published in the United States should be sent to the Managing Editor, S. Burns Weston, 1415 Locust Street, Philadelphia, Pa. All letters relating to subscriptions, advertising, and other business matters should be addressed to THE INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF ETHICS, 1415 Locust Street, Philadelphia.

¶ Articles by writers in Great Britain or Ireland should be sent to Professor J. S. Mackenzie, University College, Cardiff, Wales. All books to be reviewed, except those published in America, should be sent to Sydney Waterlow, M.A., Trinity College, Cambridge.
